The Alliance for Telecommunications Industry Solutions (ATIS) Service Oriented Networks (SON) Forum is producing a Technical Report that will provide direction on the types of 3rd Party interfaces that are desirable to support from the point of view of network operators/service providers and third party application developers. The ATIS SON Forum believes that some of the OMA API work is especially important in this area and therefore critical to cite. E.g., Parlay X and Parlay REST APIs.

The ATIS SON Forum would like to include in its report specific references to some of the OMA TS documentation, including draft TS material (e.g., for Parlay REST Phase 2). It is our understanding that this documentation is publicly available from the OMA site. We would like to confirm that it is acceptable to OMA for our report to point to and reference such OMA documents, and if so, whether there is any specific contextual information the ATIS SON Forum should include in its Technical Report on the nature of the OMA references we are citing.

If possible, we would request the kindness of a response by September 30, 2010 so that the SON Forum can discuss your reply at their upcoming meeting, October 18-19, 2010. Many thanks again for your consideration.
